

II . Intangible Cultural Heritage Inventory

There is no inventory at the moment but the need for this has strong support from David Lidimani in his report on Cultural Mapping(2011) Also the Solomon Island National Policy on Culture specifies the need to build a national database and effective system for the management and protection of cultural landscape of archeological and historical significance.

A number of works in the area before Lidimani (2011) are listed here:

In 1993, Japan established with the UNESCO Japanese Funds-in-Trust for the Preservation and Promotion of Intangible Cultural Heritage and by 2013 it had contributed 15.67 million USD and implemented almost 100 projects in the world. A prt of this work saw projects on language revitalization in a number of pacific countries for example:

- i) Indigenous Languages: Revitalizations and Preservation in Melanesia and the Pacific (Phase I): Fiji, PNG, Solomon Islands, Vanuatu (June 2000- February, 2003)
- ii) And the (Phase II): January 2006- October 2009.

The Western Solomons research database (<http://westernsolomons.uib.no>) is a joint initiative of the University of Bergen, Western Province, the Solomon Islands Ministry of Education and Human Resources Development. The online database provides information on research undertaken in the Western Solomons (Western and Choiseul Provinces) and was established by the Bergen Pacific Studies Group in Norway (www.pacific.uib.no). It was specifically set up to address needs for sources of information by leaders of Western and Choiseul provinces in 2007. It was launched on the 23rd of September 2008 and the database is continuously being updated.

The database provides information on individual researchers and their research reports and information about their research fields and geographical areas of work. A list is provided below.
